My Shaleresque
for 1938-1939

To Ever Remind Me of...

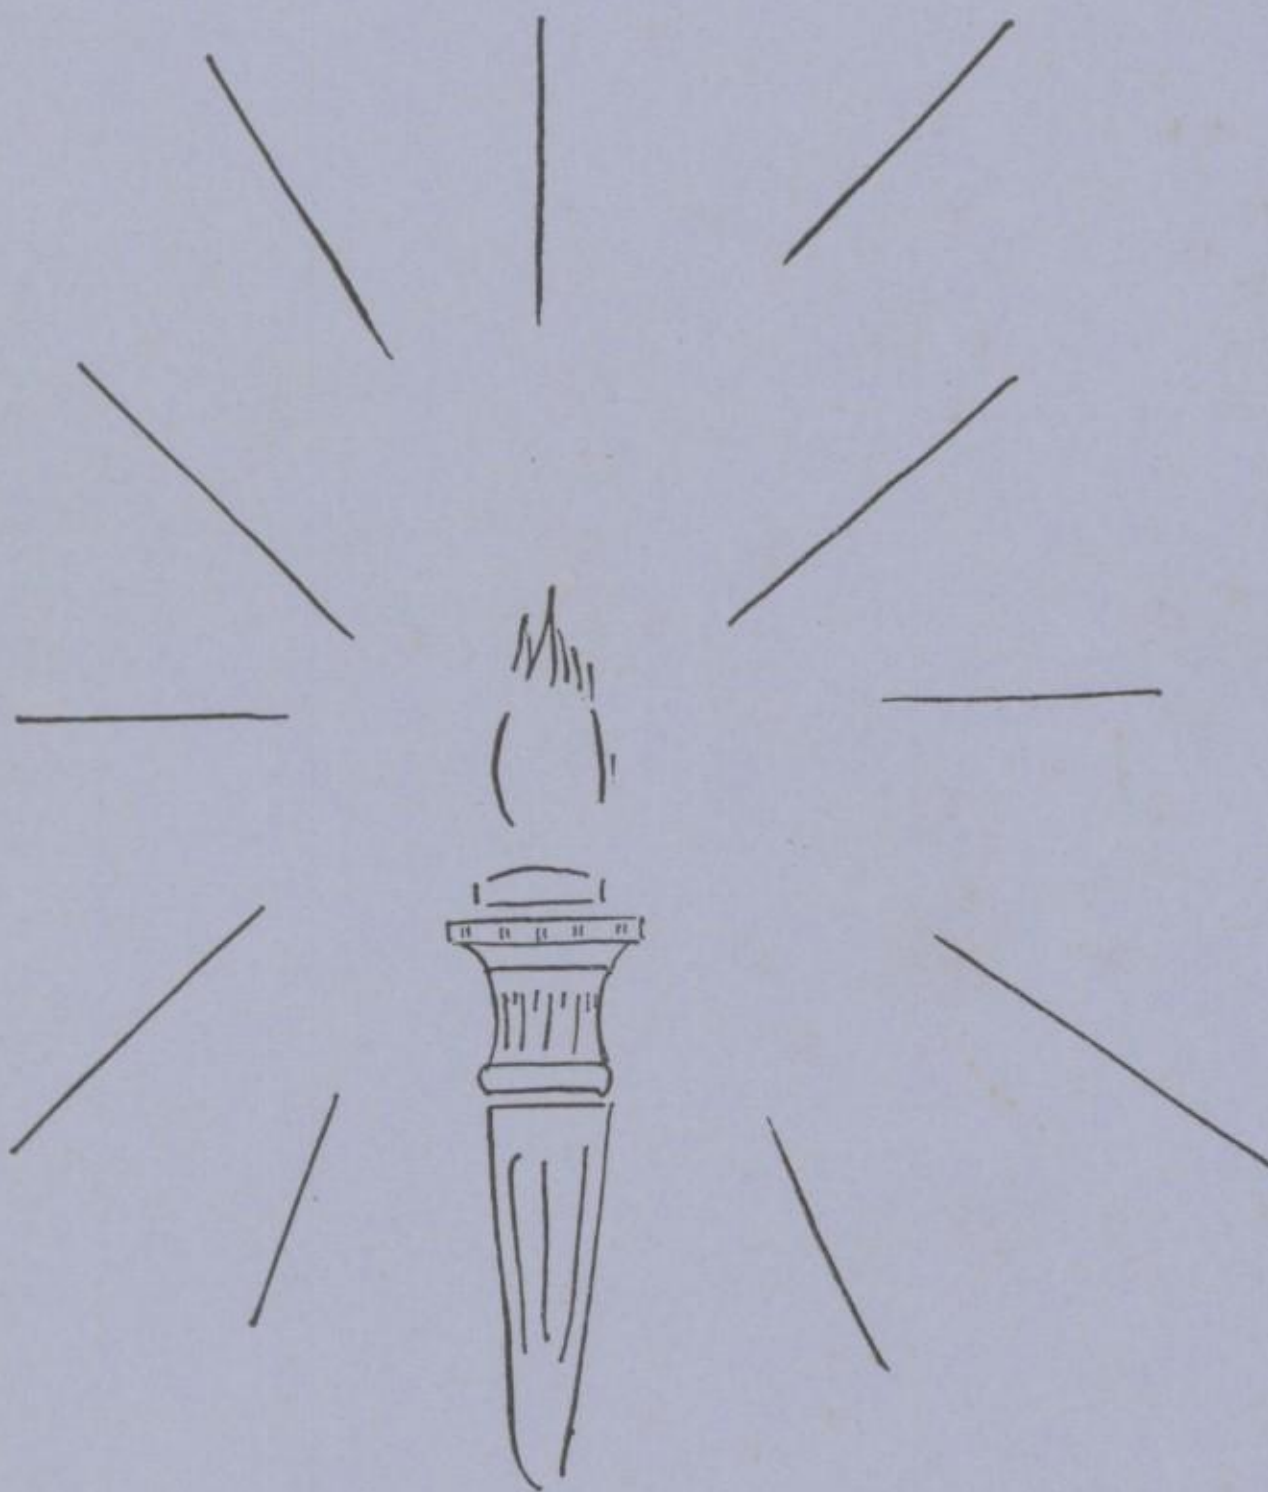

The fighting spirit, hopeful coaches, and excited rooters, fast thrills on the court, each giving his best, plus a splendid record to remind me of

OUR TWO GLORIOUS SPORTS - FOOTBALL and BASKETBALL

A tea dance, a class activity, work and play in my clubs, the weekly Scoop news, roller skating, as busy as a bee helps to remind me of

A respected leader, a worthy counselor, an understanding teacher, the genial atmosphere of class, a serious desire to learn-- may the guiding light serve to remind me of

To Youth

Its Dreams and Aspirations

To the youth of today, boys and girls, the men and women of a great tomorrow,
To those who, with all delight and eagerness, enjoy the present and its opportunities,
To the young people who face the future and its promises, undaunted and unafraid,
This book is dedicated.

Shaler Township Speaks . . .

THE CLASS of 1939

We near the close of a year filled with work and play together. Under the leadership of Richard Heald as president, Jack Schofield, vice-president, Dorothy Tomm as secretary, and Leopold von Hedemann, treasurer, and the guidance of Miss Claribel Ward and Mr. Frank B. Crawford, we have enjoyed dances, roller skating, a play, "Apron String Revolt," the Follies, and a prom.

Our Officers

Heald
Tomm

Schofield
Von Hedemann

On June 4, we will hear in our Baccalaureate services, Dr. Louis H. Evans of the Third Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh. A program of speech and song with "Youth in the World of Today" will feature our Commencement exercises. Jean Tencate, Paul Burger, Richard Heald, and Jack Stetler will deliver the addresses. With the highest honor student, Marion Riethmuller, the class of 1939 will say "Farewell".

Our Sponsors

For the many hours of work you've graciously and gladly given to our problems.
For the many ideas and plans you've shared with us.
For the many social activities you've helped us make a success.
We, the Seniors, extend our thanks to you, Miss Ward and Mr. Crawford.

The Shaleresque Diary

A weekly presentation of events, illustrated. By columnists Lucille Kleber and Wilbert Sallach.

Sept. 7, 1938.

Early this September morn, the whining schoolboy and the winsome maiden, some eight hundred in number, returned from freedom to another year of work and play. And five new pedagogues are on hand to greet us—well, most of us—and they've heaped upon the seniors another burden, Vocational Guidance. But it is fun seeing everybody together again—and up to the old tricks. Leo von Hedemann, we hear, will edit the Scoop, and you can bet he'll be busy. 'Hope he scoops up all the news. Our digestions are aided. Strolled at lunch period today. All this week, it's been work to get out the cinders. Anyway, that's the report, as you can see, from Joe Delach and Grace Hill.

Locked securely in the inner recesses of their hearts, Youth have treasured thoughts. We believe "THE SHALERESQUE DIARY" is especially adapted to the theme of this blue and gold book. The following pages introduce to you a glimpse of those events and personalities which have made the past year memorable. We hope our diary will serve as "Intimate Notes" from your yearbook.

Perhaps if we had listened in on some of the Girl Reserves meetings, presided over by Lucille Kleber, we might have heard these girls discussing how "to face life squarely and find and give the best." Then, again, they might have been planning a weiner and marshmallow roast at the home of Miss Catharine McRoberts, one of their sponsors, or they might have been welcoming their new sponsor, Miss Christine Black. As their voices rose to a higher pitch, we could be sure that this junior branch of the Y.W.C.A. was planning the Christmas or the St. Patrick's Day dance, or putting to work plans to raise funds for the campaign drive and to send a delegate to a Washington, D. C. conference.

The Shaleresque Diary

A weekly presentation of events, illustrated. By columnists Lucille Kleber and Wilbert Sallach.

Sept. 7, 1938.

Early this September morn, the whining schoolboy and the winsome maiden, some eight hundred in number, returned from freedom to another year of work and play. And five new pedagogues are on hand to greet us—well, most of us—and they've heaped upon the seniors another burden, Vocational Guidance. But it is fun seeing everybody together again—and up to the old tricks. Leo von Hedemann, we hear, will edit the Scoop, and you can bet he'll be busy. 'Hope he scoops up all the news. Our digestions are aided. Strolled at lunch period today. All this week, it's been work to get out the cinders. Anyway, that's the report, as you can see, from Joe Delach and Grace Hill.

Sept. 14, 1938.

Our stomachs are given a break—ten cents for the special, containing everything from soup to nuts—introduced into the cafeteria by "Hogan's Handy Helpers". The Athletic Association coins money all this week, 'cause we just must have that season football ticket. Leaders take advantage of the new gym floor—Peg McMillan becomes president of the club. Laurels are heaped on the shoulders of Pete Stetler, as he's elected captain of our eleven. From the grin, he's pleased about something. Practice every evening until sundown. Gee! we're hoping for some grand games.

HIGH IDEAL of character . . . of speech . . . of scholarship . . . of sportsmanship—the Hi-Y program! In line with the club motto, "RED BLOODED SERVICE TO OTHERS", these boys have undertaken patrol duty outside the school at dismissal. Success! Then, too, they raise and lower the flag. Activities among themselves are numerous: refreshing us with hotdogs at the Millvale-Shaler football game; an induction ceremony, January 19, followed by basketball, and . . . refreshments; a social get-together with the Girl Reserves in the Gym in February; a swim, and weiner roast in March at the North Side Y.M.C.A.; an evening of basketball in the Gym; and even a visit to the Allegheny Observatory (No, the stars didn't shine on Pittsburgh that night!) Jack Schofield, Alvin Sessi, Robert Galen, and Jack Irwin have official duties, and Mr. Stahl and Mr. Crawford help the boys enjoy themselves.

Mr. President

A commercial landslide, except for Vice-President Regis Wagner, who saved the day for the academics, climaxed a bristling campaign in which our politicians displayed booster pins and posters and bestowed kisses (candy—much to our regret!) upon us. The Hall committee, including Richard Heald, Joseph Schmitt, Wilbert Sallach, Robert Kral, Earl Goddard, and Harold Soose helped reduce casualties in our corridors. Home rooms sent representatives to the monthly meetings. President Burger, with Secretary Grace Steigerwald, set a new goal for students this year by presenting the four outstanding home room presidents with pins.

"9—16—3—14—27 . . ." no, it isn't a football signal, but the girls coming on the gym floor and giving their numbers to one of the twenty some leaders. Each leader is doing her part, taking care of one gym class and helping her sponsor by taking numbers, hanging out the absentee list, refereeing basketball and volleyball games, checking clean suits, socks, and towels. At the close of every class, you can hear the leader—"Everybody, showers! Foot baths first!"

The leaders themselves work and play together. With meetings once a week—Margaret McMillan is the president—they plan picnics, dances, and an occasional swim. At Open House program, and at the May pageant, with Miss Dent, these girls help with the planning, and actively participate.

The World of Books

"BOOK LOVE, my friends, is your pass to the greatest, the purest, and the most perfect pleasure"—so believe this large group of girls. It's every other Thursday they meet in "The World of Books". They've included among their programs a special Christmas celebration, and a novel book contest won by Betty Toerge. Vera Davies as president, Wilda Black, Evelyn Pilgrim, Rita Kleber, the other officers, take care to eliminate the disinterested members—three meetings missed, and you're not a book lover. For Miss Shoemaker, and her Library Club only—"American Sindesmos Vivliothikiss".

Table 4: Black, I. Toerge, Davies, Sessi, Kay, Fretwell.

We can say definitely that these boys and girls are "in the upperbrackets", or as they might say it in Latin (boastfully, of course), Veni, Vidi, Vinci all the declensions, and conjugations, Caesar's wars, Vergil's "Aeneid", or Cicero and his orations. Occasionally it was Popeye, Nauta Vir, or a Roman Style Show, or a Christmas celebration like the Saturnalia, or a program dedicated to Caesar, or the history of the Lupercalia, a fiery debate sometimes—all these were part of the Latin Club with Miss Annette Bach. Tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders have joined the Junior Classical League in an effort to extend the appreciation of this language.

Jam session reigns in the auditorium, for Tolley of the last graduating class, and his Collegians swing on. Readin's a plenty for the chillun! The library boasts five hundred new books. Oh my! Those gray pencils with the football schedule are quite the thing. A Boyer innovation. Clubs, they say, are beginning in full force. We're right in the midst of work. It's fun to draw in a diary, or to "do a little doodling". We think the pictures better, altho' it is a matter of opinion. At least, the boys warmed up at the Zelenople game—result, they fell before the Shaler power house eleven.

Sept. 26, 1938

Rock-a-by baby—and as one half of the world rocks, we stand by the radio and listen to Chamberlain speak. If you can't go to the theater, let the theater come to you, and this it does when the Deitrich players appear in the court scene from "The Merchant of Venice", and a sketch of Lincoln. Rumors say that those Farmers, the Future ones of America, are busy talking over their summer projects, and they've elected Ted Straub their president. He pledges to feed us well. Football is the center of attention—especially Rege Wagner. He looks pretty good, don't you think? Aspinwall was conquered—victory was sweet!

With the News . . .

Flash! Scoop! The school news is brought to you each Wednesday by the journalism class under Miss Eloise R. Bomhard. The staff artist sketches each week; Milady of the Blue Eyes presents her column on manners; Fads and Fashions attract feminine eyes, while the sports column gains the male readers' interest; school and general news make us conscious of the big things we're doing; home room personals, but not too personal, are always a delight to some. All these and much more you receive in the Shaler Scoop. The Christmas magazine, the February 10 edition of the Dispatch, the Valentine tea dance, and the special class speakers were added attractions.

You'll find the staff grouped about the Editor, Leopold von Hedemann. Special editors are:

You'll like the Shaleresque

We hope you'll like it, because we had fun in making it. After the group and senior pictures were taken by the Strem Studios, members of the staff went to town one Saturday morning with paper and paste. Of course, all this trimming and pasting was done at the Robert Rawsthorne Company, in an effort (we hope!) to help the printers. Richard Heald, Ray Ahlborn, and Tom McMasters made a township and city-wide canvass for ads, while Edward Connor and Paul Burger were on the alert with the camera. Jack Schofield made his debut as a rhymster, and the others of us did the write-ups for our issue, which was edited by Dorothy Leitch, with Miss Ruth E. Brown as adviser. Climaxing it all, our eager salesmen, Charles Guth, Richard Heald, Ray Ahlborn, and Tom McMasters, have been successful in their drive to sell you this Shaleresque!

Moo, Moo, Mooin'—the leaders at their Turkey in the Straw dance! Farmers were there, too, straw hats and all—Ted Straub and Ed Hughes with the fiddles. The P.T.A. starts functioning and the first official act is to formulate the Junior Cabinet. You see, they just can't leave us out of it! The periscope says that in ten years from now there will be no old maids from our school. Why? I'll bet it peeped in the window of Miss Bailey's room and saw the girls in Homemaking. You weren't among those who tried out for cheerleaders, were you? Did they work! And Ginny Lea, Cindy Ilch, Evelyn Pilgrim, and Patsy Davis had to win. Maybe you can find yourself among this crowd. Oh, you can! And Mr. Boyer, C. W., and Mr. W. Oelschlager rate space, too. 'Guess this was at the Derry game.

Oct. 10, 1938

Take it! Well, you just have to, if you want to play soccer with those underclassmen! The boys are enjoying the out-of-doors as long as possible. Scenes were reversed this week—students loaf, and teachers work—Institute. Hi-Y (forget the handsome part) begins to take a big interest in school life under the leadership of Freddie Schofield. And talk about magic fingers! Remember Mr. Bell's playing? Both assemblies heard him. Don't some people have all the talent? Dear Diary, make us great someday, too.

moski, J. Winschell, McMasters.

"All in the April Evening" with many "A Spirit Flower", "Robin in the Rain", who was "None But the Lonely Heart", began "The Little Dance", and a song just like "The Indian Love Call". Later there was "Homing", for "I Dream of Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair", and as the finale, "Allah's Holiday"—these are but a few of the selections the three choral groups enjoy several times each week with Mr. Bell. The group above is the Mixed Chorus; a Junior club finds music equally enjoyable; and the Girls' Chorus never tire of singing, "Sweethearts", and "The Indian Love Call". The public enjoyed their selections at the Millvale-Springdale-Shaler Concert in February, and "The Belle of Bagdad" wouldn't have been a success without their voices, for they are "As Sweet as a Song".

Music, Maestro, Please

We may say, "Music, Maestro, Please", but we really mean we enjoy hearing each one of these aspiring musicians. Each week, you'll find them tuning up in the auditorium, putting his soul into his instrument and the selection. We've had the special opportunity of hearing them at Open House, the senior play, the operetta, "The Belle of Bagdad", and at Commencement activities.

You may find these students in the orchestra, "tuning up the future Blue Network Stars": Ruth Moury, Marvin Philips, Alfred Wait, J. DeHaven, R. DeHaven, Stuart McCausland, Regis Mitesser, Ruth Bullard, Raymond Stahl, Foster Heppler, Esther Gascoine, James Caruso, Harold DeVorak, James Teslik, Jean Scott, Jane Austin, Kenneth Maier, Richard Roy, Margie Dumbauld, Donald Guth, Marvin Steigerwald, and Anna May Fitzsimmons.

The Best Band in The Land

The flash of color, the blare of bugles, the rumble of drums, the thrill of cheers—our band, directed by Mr. Bell, triumphantly advances with its drum major, Dorothy Leitch in the lead. Between halves of the Millvale-Shaler game, Millvale's band and ours strutted their colors before the spectators. Millvale, Springdale, and our band combined their efforts in an inspiring band concert, Feb. 8, which featured Regis Mitesser as trumpet soloist. We're proud of the band members, and it is, "The Best Band in the Land."

The upper brackets of the school have organized into the "Legio Romano" under Miss Bach. More work for the teachers this week. "Aw, Ma, I'm late now. Sign my report. Gee, that's over! 'Guess she didn't even notice much." Even with the aid of the handsome and bold cop and all us loyal rooters, our team wasn't just there to defeat Millvale (Blame it on the fog), and Oakmont (Not bad though). The nearby rendezvous suffers a loss from fire. Seniors are early in town, watching the birdie! Helen Warford and Grace Hill stroll along. Thinking? Yes, of course—"Will there be one good one among them?"

Oct. 24, 1938

Presto! Now it's here. Chango! Now it's still here! You may be good but that wasn't the way the Junior Assembly saw it as the young magician baffled them this week. Shal-erites spend much time on the floor. And G 57 reports as the seniors engage in first money making scheme of the year. We had a grand skate at Twin Willows . . . but what's a little fall? Down with secret alliances!

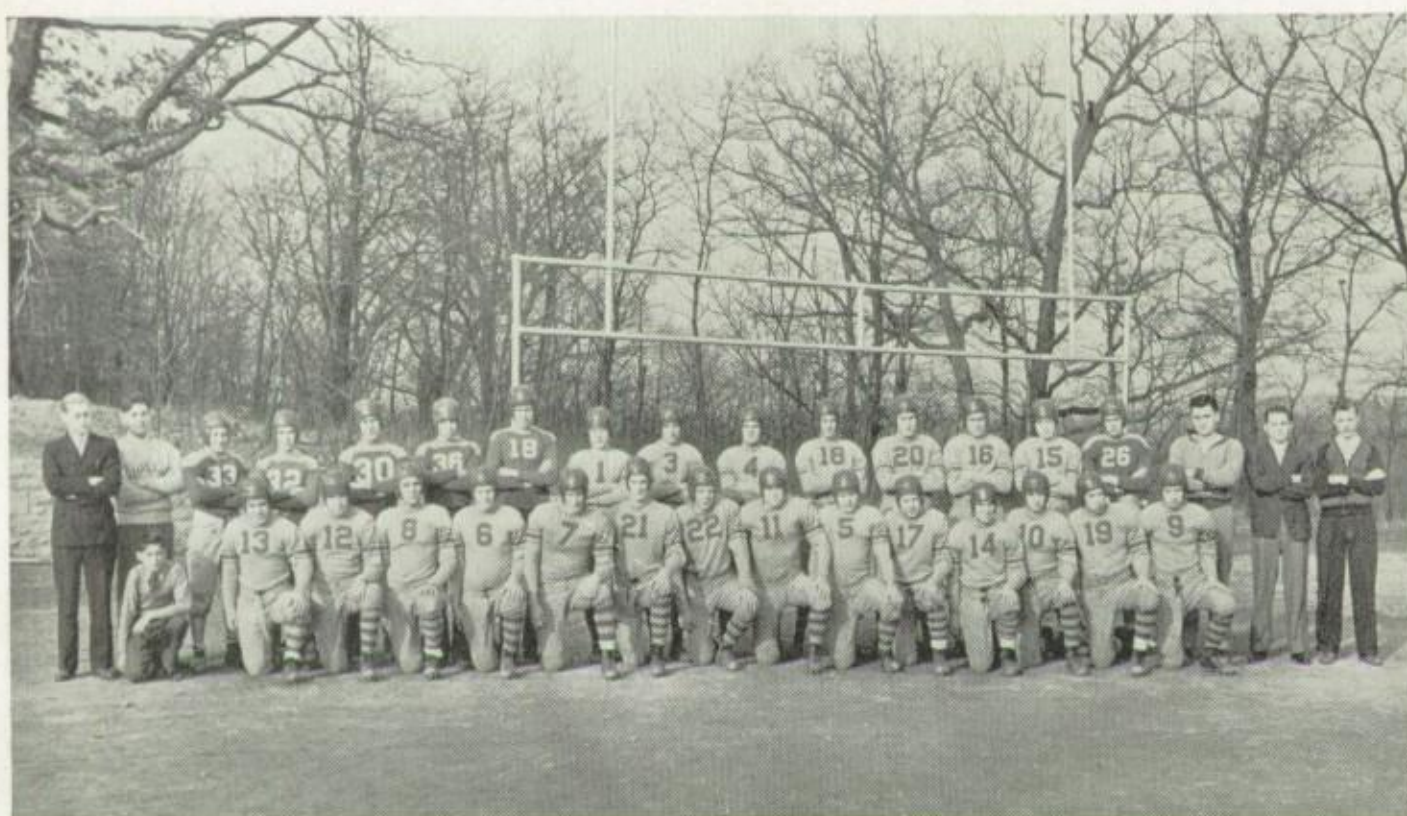

But wait—maybe it's conferences like this that cause us to triumph. We're talking about Pockey, Archie to you, and Mr. Martin, and—victory over Etna. Up with secret alliances!

FROM THE SIDELINES

In the opener, a light hard-charging WEST VIEW team gave Shaler a close and hard fought game. Hollihan got his chance to become one of the section's best ends . . . The team failed to hit its stride until the second half against ZELIENOPLE. A field day for Heald, who became the fifth man in the opponent's backfield . . . A great day for Shaler! A whitewashing for ASPINWALL! Featured were the line plunging of Jones, and the shifty off-tackle runs of Wagner. Captain Stetler's toe did a fine job, too . . . Shaler's power folded up before the heavy line of DERRY TOWNSHIP. Miroslavic, substitute back, did a grand job of ball carrying and tackling . . . O-o-o-oh, that fog!!!! Too bad, Laeng. Defeat at the hands of MILLVALE! Oh well, get even with them next year!!!

An off day for Shaler. Poor blocking, slow charging, and lack of pass receiver held Shaler in check, not OAKMONT. Damico's playing was the only bright spot . . . At last! Shaler regains its lost form against ETNA! Ahlborn and Pockey sparked the attack, the good old Ahlborn-Pockey combination . . . Nice going, Aigner! His sensational completion of Captain Stetler's perfect pass was enough to defeat BURGETTSTOWN. Stobbe did a fine job in the line, tackling and blocking superbly . . . Shaler showed its power early in the PENN TOWNSHIP fracas, and then was satisfied to coast. Zimmerman featured with his hard line play. Jones was in form, plowing through the line. Stetler's punts were long and high.

Yes, it was YEA, TEAM!, or FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!, or a divided victory yell many a time that these six enthusiastic girls led a loyal rooting section to cheer the team to victory. On the field or floor, they were there, doing their share! To these six girls, Ruth Sample, Jean Tencate, Lucinda Ilch, Virginia Lea, and Patsy Davis, we say, "We're proud of you".

Open the doors! That's our policy at school. Let everyone come in! It's Open House again. And from the crowd we all thought the parents would like to enroll and give us a rest. Won at Burgettstown! "Rab Stetler Burns" talks to Jeannie—no, only in a play. Help! Help! Ye editor (she's right here) cracks down at this time on the lazy scribblers as ye scribe, and starts to roll the annual hoop in fine fashion and if—she rolls a hoop as well as she spins a baton, we're headed someplace.

Politics, politics, politics, plus a little mud, is all we're getting now at school. Those would-be politicians are conducting an extraordinary campaign for those Council positions. Amid all this ballyhoo, at least Mr. Elder is able to keep his head clear for an Armistice Day address—those stories were good, too! They say Shaler students (one Steve Starman, for example) turn dopesters, and take the Press for a ride in the football contest, but could these dopesters by one addition and one multiplication tell us how many cars are here? Figures don't lie—we won at Penn Township. 'Most everyone is thinking about one thing—Thanksgiving vacation. Not far off!

FROM THE BLEACHERS

The Alumni went down to defeat . . . WEST VIEW'S sterling defense and a few tricky cheers aided in defeating our team in the first important game of the season . . . an easy victory for Shaler at the expense of MARS this time . . . the first league game and Shaler lost to MILLVALE . . . a highly-keyed team topped OAKMONT in a close battle with a disputed close-time basket . . . too bad, ETNA overcame our quintet on home grounds . . . Friday, January 13, and bad luck at the hands of SHARPSBURG . . . Schoenman and Bell sparked the attack as VERONA went down . . . a losing streak and downfall at the hands of ASPINWALL this time . . . a nip and tuck battle between PENN TOWNSHIP and our team, PENN emerging as victor . . . a close score and last quarter defeat at the hands of WEST VIEW . . . the Huskies just couldn't make it as MILLVALE won again . . . snapping out of the losing streak our team outplayed OAKMONT in a thrilling league contest with Bell and Captain Stetler scoring thirteen points apiece . . . a one-sided affair when ETNA got even the better of Bell's scrappy nature and Stetler and Jones went out on fouls . . . another thriller and a loss to SHARPSBURG by two points and some novel cheering . . . talk about games, the varsity went to town at VERONA but by one point . . . a nice score against ASPINWALL with Stetler marking up sixteen points . . . the last league game and Stetler rolled up twenty points for a timely victory over Penn . . . two contests rolled the season to a close with SHADYSIDE handing the Huskies two defeats.

Reserves Rating

In the footsteps of the varsity . . . the Junior Huskies received the tough breaks . . . wound up with a record in the minus column . . . but with the biggest squad in the section . . . almost all of the players sophomores . . . and Bob Devlin joined the ranks of the varsity . . . Jimmy Smyers and Harry Hollihan came around . . . and all the players reserved for next season.

They're still at it here. Won't we ever get any rest? When these politicians aren't talking, they're passing hand bills and cigars, or hand shaking—don't they ever sleep? There's much practice now in the gym, for the basketballites are getting busy. Sadness is here, for we mourn Dr. L. C. Fausold's passing. Just rambling around, the rambling reporter again came upon this scene. It hasn't daughned on Don Daughn that there's work to be daughn. Isn't it wonderful to be a sophomore, and a water boy at that? Yes, the campaign at last is over-congratulations Burger! And Vice-President Wagner and Secretary Steigerwald!

What a change! What a change! After all that political gabbing, we have turkey and all the trimmings. "Yes, I said ten cents". And what can be the cause of all this ambition? Maybe its no school Thursday and Friday. Something's crooked someplace, but Dick Heald is convincing isn't he? No wonder the seniors chose him for president. Ray Ahlborn is some campaign manager. Snow is here. See you next week!

"Don't cross. Watch out. Be careful!" These and many more precautions are given us this week in the annual safety program of the National Safety Council. Where, and oh where had your little dog gone? Well, if he is big and if he's a husky, chances are the students chose him as their emblem. And the Juniors skate and fall alternately at Twin Willows. Much explaining we had to do, for Ma or Pa had to sign on the dotted line that little white card. And many braved it to get in at least one more shot this season. Shaler turns toward the higher things in life as a score of us attend Fritz Reiner's Symphony concert at the Mosque.

Dec. 5, 1938

2-4-6-8. Yep, that is the way it goes in basketball and anticipation is at a crisis as the Varsity defeats the former players, 26 to 14. The Farmers went into town this week, and to the Y.M.C.A. at that. Everybody's hard at work after a rest. The question seems to be, "Where to wear the emblem?" Every loyal Shalerite with a Husky emblem! Scoopers are busy . . . busy . . . busy. Ray Ahlborn and Dick Heald scour the community for money—but for the yearbook. Oh, some husky isn't so husky by the looks of this! Well, just the freshmen—time to grow up yet.

How does your garden grow?

These energetic young men studying Vocational Agriculture not only know that answer but they know all the answers to all the questions about poultry, home improvements, field crops, green houses, and fruits. They constitute the Wise Owl Chapter of the Keystone Association of the Future Farmers of America. They are either responsible for, or take part in its many functions. Mr. Champion, Allegheny county supervisor of Agriculture, meets with the group each Tuesday. Besides the class work, these boys are interested in their individual projects. One boy reports raising one hundred white leghorn chickens, and making it a paying proposition. They're versatile, too, for Theodore Straub and Edward Hughes played at the Barn Dance staged by a group at the fall P.T.A. meeting. The boys chose Theodore Straub as their president.

With Mr. Champion, seven of these boys went to the Harrisburg convention in January, and took an active part in the program.

Special Today!

You'll never see them standing like this from eleven-thirty to one o'clock each day, for then they're busy serving the hundreds of students who frequent the cafeteria for the specials. And we add that you'll see hustle and bustle all day long in the cooks' quarters, for Miss Hogan and her staff, Miss Vale, Mrs. English, Miss Reynolds, and Mrs. Cox, are doing a hundred and one things, planning menus and balancing the food budget.

For your information, Miss Reynolds has a specialty—cakes and pies. Tasty chop suey, chili con carne, and such please Mrs. English. Nothing delights Miss Vale so much as making a delectable salad or desert, and Mrs. Cox puts rolls on her specialty list.

All About The School

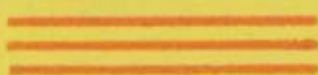

Remember?

Joe Miroslavic's picture in the Sun-Tele.
Eddie Daoood's and Pete Christman's pipes.
Regis Mitesser's trumpet playing.
The lectures for the P.O.D. classes.
Margaret Fretwell and Frances Kuhlber waiting all hours after school.
Billy Scheuring washed dishes for the French luncheon.
The explosion in Mr. Bowers' room, February 17.
Bob Devlin and Bob Peterson and their arrows.
Alfred Wait's jealous nature.
Jean Soose and Bill Ryan in those little quarrels.
Walter Englehardt's Oklahoma accent.
Tom McMasters and his harem in the operetta, and Leopold von Hedemann making love to Helen Warford, and Ruth Sample singing.
Miss Bomhard's Tuesday afternoon teas.
The French luncheon, February 21.
Several senior girls visiting Miss Moulton before first semester exams with presents of lollypops.
The Hi-Y boys sitting in class waiting for rain so they might go out to take in the flag.
Victor Gerdes with his gift of gab, particularly with Miss Hogan.
George Bastyr's hearty laugh.
How Mr. Boyer falls asleep in classes.
Evelyn Freeauf's sledriding.
The craze for upward coiffures.
Robert Kloskey's hat.
The Westinghouse trip. Cheap!
The scramble for large mirror in the dressing rooms.
Dorothy Leitch's twirling.
The boys and their loud plaid pants.
That Mr. Martin gave the name of Cocomalt to Robert Van Atta.

How much Laurence Poropatich knew about world events in P.O.D.
The teachers' hoods.
Ruth and Ray's anniversary.
The special hair bows.
Marjorie's and Madelaine's arguments.
The giggle of Ruth Biles.
Howard Black's curl.
Elizabeth Baecker's nimble fingers.
President Burger collecting the absentee slips. Some luck!
That Harold DeVorak resembles Mickie Rooney.
Josephine Delach imitating people.
The flirtatious manner of Dick Rivers.
The time when several senior girls got engagement rings.
Jack Harr and his cartoons and assortment of animals.
A splendid performance by Grace Hill in the part of Henrietta.
Miss Ward announcing, "Just because you're Seniors, you don't have to show your dignity by walking slowly".
Richard Roy with his, "I can't understand you. Speak English."
Miss Dent commanding, "Inside, everybody!"
The conservative, quiet manner of Earl Goddard.
Robert (Butch) Kral's superhuman strength.
That Leona Genser has a "love" for pretzels.
The first skating party at Twin Willows.
The time when Mr. Bowers asked Wilda Black how to start a locomotive.
We had our intelligence tested.
That Bub Nicklas is a perpetual Junior.

December 12

Two girls' clubs, the Girl Reserves and the Leaders, battle it out in the gym before an enthusiastic crowd. And the Leaders won by the margin of one point. The musical robot supplied the popular tunes for the Seniors' tea dance this week. The band, together with our honorable foe, Millvale, added their musical notes with Springdale, at a Springdale concert. The Shaler boys bowed to West View. Novel cheering, too. Thoughts turn to Christmas and . . . vacation . . . it's to be a long one this time. No more books, no more teachers . . . for over two weeks. We couldn't very well picture your thoughts this week, so we save our snaps for later.

December 19

A Christmas dance, Wednesday, December 21 was on the program of the Girl Reserves. Future chemists, inventors, and all-around scientists, and a few liars (we hear they're working on lie detectors) are among the new club organized by Mr. Walter Oelschlager. Mr. Graham is interested too. The Hi-Y selected new members. Christmas parties galore! Home room parties and exchanging gifts ("Yes, I said ten cents!") Whoopee! We won at Mars. That long-looked for vacation is here at last.

The Hi-Y boys add a little fun to their duties, as you see in the picture. And one little Mouse got in the way of the camera, with this result. Harr! Harr!

The Shaleresque Diary

January 9

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the students marched back to classes after a gay holiday vacation. And during their absence, the school was somewhat changed by a clean-up spree! Oh me!

Oh me! Night work, and more . . . no more fun now. Agile freshman athletes play before their honorable classmates. Would-be politicians met to discuss monitorship in Student Council. We bowed before a large crowd of rooters to the Etna Rams. And Sharpsburg took us over Friday. Did you say that he looks like a pugilist? He might use some of those tactics with the Juniors if they don't carry out his orders, for Ed Jones is the new president of this class.

January 16

Eh, Johnie! A new kind of hearing test was given to the students by Miss Bowser. They say, "Get a hobby, and forget the drudgery of everyday work", and many of the Shaleresites proved this during home room period this week. Such a display! Senior boys played basketball this week. President Schofield and his club inducted new members at services Thursday. Verona bowed to our team. Even in this weather, lunch room periods must be enjoyed if only by a skate and . . . a fall. 'Seems as if the Sophomores were guilty this time, for aren't Ray Smith, Elmer Gall, and Robert Russ among these?

January 23

"Water, water, everywhere" . . . and "not a drop to drink" during those hectic semester examinations this week. Perspiration a-plenty! Even Mr. Stahl chose his regular position . . . outside . . . with a bus . . . rather than some of those tests. Maybe he was just stalling around, instead of marking those papers, or again . . . maybe it didn't take long to mark his papers. But some were fortunate enough to be exempted. Did you hear about those girls in the senior class who presented Miss Moulton with lolly pops on the eve of exams? Of course, they didn't have to take the test, for they had been exempted.

January 30

Boomerang! boomerang! Yes, the teachers hit us hard with tests on Thursday and Friday, but the checking of papers bowled them over. In fact, they gave us a two-day vacation to mark them. You see, they wanted to be sure they added up the scores correctly.

Our regrets! Mr. James Laurich does not have his picture with the faculty in that section, so we present him here. He replaces Mr. McCaw, who left at semesters. Mr. Laurich is a graduate of California State Teachers' College. Beware! He is a boxer . . . a first class fightin' man. Reports say he's an expert driver . . . but that's Miss Brown's car here.

The Shaleresque Diary

February, 6

"Climb to the top of the mountain, and you'll see the Creator smoking"—by such wit Robert O. Monaghan, with his mellow voice, and his piano selections, amused us and told interesting stories about the blind. He made some of us seem small, for his blindness hasn't prevented his doing things and doing them well. The editor-in-chief of the Scoop (to the left, please) is busy with his assistants planning the publication of the Dispatch. Quite an undertaking. Much night work!

February 13

The thirteenth, "Leo" was busy editing the Shaler edition of the Dispatch. The fifteenth was the Scoop Heart tea dance. Several of the seniors were in the limelight that day, particularly Ray Ahlborn and Ruth Roughton, dressed in colonial costumes. Reminded us of Mr. and Mrs. some years hence . . . with gray hair and all. Scoopettes came along. Ruth Sample and Dick Heald broke a heart . . . only a paper one at the dance. "The Belle of Bagdad" is now under production, with a large cast, leading parts to be played by Charles Stromoski and Ruth Sample. Jack Harr and George Bastyr are to fly high as a couple of aviators, hunting for the Belle. And Bill (We mention the nickname later) Eckert tries to train the guards and make love at the same time. More about the operetta later.

February 20

"Donnez-moi de la fromage, s'il vous plait". To those who do not "parler francais", this means, "Give me some cheese, please." The second year French students attended a Mardi Gras luncheon this week. Miss Jeffery was a guest. Just too bad if you forgot a word, because you didn't get anything to eat. The Girl Reserves recognize new members Monday evening. Later they were hostesses to the Hi-Y at a dance in the gym. Another puzzle for you: "Sindesmos Vinleothekiss" . . . the name for the Library Club. It's Greek to you, and to everybody, in fact! Pete Stetler scored twenty points to down the Penn Township boys. Mr. Graham and Mr. Halechko rate space, for Mr. Graham is busy with Vocational Guidance and the Science Club, and Mr. Halechko "accounts" for that.

February 27

Some of Miss Grau's students find amusing names for the substitute teacher. But this didn't last too long, unless you wanted a kick in the shins from Mr. Broge. You can buy them for a penny. The Red Cross buttons. The drive continued all this week. Time out to see Howard Black and Robert Pitcairn as they recline in the car. They made attractive posters for the operetta. Do you suppose this was before the boys hoisted up the car . . . just a little, or took off the chains? No, they both seem too satisfied with life just now. By the way, they're both Uncle Sam's sailors in the operetta.

March 6

"Step together, step, one, two, one two", or "We're a couple of aviators used to flying high"—we who were in the operetta heard this every practice. And plenty more, too. Sore danced so well that the Super Supreme Film Company of Hollywood, California, is bidding for his talent. Dress rehearsal. You'd better hide, Sore. That's Bill Eckert, just in case, you don't know. The Junior Varsity and the Willows Club met this week with . . . victory! Six weeks of the new semester ended and those reports came out again. Spring fever's bitin' us now, but we hope we can coast through the rest of the year. The teachers have been vacationing . . . with illnesses . . . and we have had a score of substitutes. New faces! New ideas! But, "Wish our teacher were back again".

March 13

Parotitis, Parotitis, call it mumps if you please, but nevertheless, that's what caused the great theatrical production, "The Belle of Bagdad" to be postponed this week. Miss Ward and her art students are hard at work with a new set of scenery, the frames for which Mr. Oelschlager and some of the shop boys made. Looks wonderful, doesn't it? Just above you see some of the female performers. Peg McMillan, Grace Hill (with a comedy part), Helen Warford, Ruth Botz, Rita Winschell, Grace Steigerwald, Madalyn Stromoski, and Ruth Sample. We couldn't figure if a certain senior was off to serenade all these girls, or not, and then maybe we should have put a "star" above a certain girl. Haven McQuarry's questions are insignificant as compared with Miss Moulton's as each ask, "Do you want to be an actor?" About three score report for tryouts for the senior production. Some of these who brilliantly displayed the green on the seventeenth should have got in touch with Miss Moulton, for some of the characters are Irish.

The Shaleresque

Diary

March 20

A group of commercial students have formed Delta Delta Lambda under the sponsorship of Miss Dravo. Someone (Paul Burger, we believe) caught her at her desk, and we don't know why he cut off her head, but we're sorry. Better watch out boys, for your job may not be safe. The way the Girl Reserves tackled the man size job of promoting a tea dance was astonishing. And the large crowd displayed large profits. Better hold those profits tight, girls, lest some wise boy inveigle you to let him hold it. Those amateur actors are slowly becoming professionals under the guidance of Miss Moulton and Miss Black, who are holding practice every evening. Ruth Roughton and Dorothy Leitch, Dick Rivers and Leopold von Hedemann will play leading roles.

March 27

Swell show! Gee, but Sore can dance! Did you see Grace Hill's eyes? They finally got up the ladder . . . of love. These were the comments one heard as the audience filed out on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings when "The Belle of Bagdad" played to a full house. Thanks to all the actors, singers, and dancers for a grand performance. Part of the work you'll see below. That's Virginia Heller, one of the artists who spent many an hour perfecting the scenery for those evenings.

Not only are part of the seniors, the Romeos and Juliets, busily engaged in practicing, but all the academic group are busy working on their theses for Economics.

The Shaleresque Diary

April 3

"Oh, take me out to the ball game, take me out to the crowd!" It won't be long now, for Mr. Martin has called for baseball practice and scores responded with nifty catches, lightning pegs, scorching bingles, and alas, some errors. Connors, Stetler, Laeng, Ed Jones, Rege Wagner, Guth, Bert Wagner, Kral, Turner, Binder, Zimmerman, and many others of the underclassmen reported. We are behaving like nice children now, for Easter is just about upon us, which reminds us that there will be no school Thursday, Friday, or Monday. Practice continues, but there is almost a revolt this nice weather, that is among the senior thespians. Twenty colleges sent representatives to visit us this week. Nearby colleges and universities held conferences with students and parents. P.T.A. drew a record crowd. Banners, clippings, and advertising galore! Several rooms deserve honorable mention for their attractive decorations. And did you see the articles in the Pittsburgh papers? More college nights!

April 10

Spring is in the air. And some of you enjoyed the lunch hour strolling. It won't be hard to pick that sophomore couple here, will it? Maybe you can find yourselves here, too. The class valedictorian . . . it's to be Marion Riethmuller . . . and commencement speakers were handed a little work this week. We'll tell you about them later. Dick Heald came in for his share, too. Foreign affairs get the best of some of the seniors and many of them find it necessary to say their two cents worth. This, Newland, Iris Roy, and Sallach, and other do, as they take the League of Nations test in competition for a trip to Europe. Best of luck to you. I'll meet you at the Riviera, or at the baseball game, Friday, at Neville.

April 17

I see stars! We all see stars! Everyone hasn't been struck unconscious, nor has everyone visited Schenley Park, but the Hi-Y has made a trip to the Allegheny Observatory, and everyone who attended saw plenty of stars! And no fights either! "I'm John Jones . . . have a card"—that's the style these days, as the high brow seniors show off the name cards just returned from the engraver. Here's Miss Moulton, the guiding genius behind the senior play. Leading actors include Leopold von Hedemann, Regis Newland, Dick Rivers, Jack Schofield, Dorothy Leitch, Ruth Roughton, Helen Auld, Helen Warford, Dorothy Buchanan, and Ruth Sample. If receipts are big enough, and Miss Grau puts across the sale of tickets (no "If" about it when she's in charge), there may be a senior prom. Dick Heald has his eye on the Wildwood Country Club. Tuesday brought the Etna Rams to Shaler to play our boys. We let you add the score. April 21 saw Pitcairn here, too.

April 24

Spring is the time for romance and therefore, go out and pick yourself a girl! But wait, that's not fair, "Porp". Don't you think one is enough for anyone? This looks as if the gentleman gets his way with the girls. From here on, my dear readers, your guess is as good as ours. This goes to print before May and June have rolled around, so if we should predict incorrectly, won't you just add your own version, and excuse us? The Shaler nine went to Shadyside Tuesday of this week. Remember Sample last year? And Friday, West View entertained the Huskies. Apron String Revolt scored a huge success! It looks now as if the seniors "rolled in the dough". Congratulations to all the actors and directors! Some of the cast got our mention last week. We add these names to the Famous Actors: Marions Riethmuller, Lucille Kleber, Robert Pitcairn, Tom McMasters, Robert and William Miller, Donald Sharpe, Jean Tencate, Marion Jones, Harold (Mickey) DeVorak, Laurence Poropatich, Rita Winschell, Thelma Guyton, Howard Giles.

The Shaleresque Diary

May 1

"For I'm to be queen of the May, Mother." Thus spoke one of the senior girls for she is crowned as Shaler's queen in ceremonies on the front lawn. A World's Fair program, with the Machine Age, Music of Tomorrow, a Petticoat Waltz, were among the ideas used. Ruth Roughton, Dorothy Tomm, and Ritz Kunz were among the candidates for Senior Queen, and we'll trust to your memory and good judgment to see that the junior maid of honor crowns the most beautiful. Candid camera fans were on the alert to picture all the dances and dancers. We hope they got some good ones. Haven't you noticed this little fellow scooting through the halls all this year? He's Ralph Churchfield. Really the picture below doesn't do his short stature justice, do you think? Ralph Murphy got caught in the background. Howard Black (to the right) must have been on Hi-Y duty.

May 8

Last week saw Shaler in action on the diamond at Etna, and another game scheduled for May 5. This week they played at Pitcairn (May 10) and Friday, May 12, West View played here. One more game after this week! Five seniors are hard at work with their commencement speeches. Dick Heald, as class president, is to welcome our guests and introduce the topic or theme of this year, "Youth in the World of Today". Jean Tencate represents the 12-3 section with her topic, "Youth in School", while the 12-4 group has Paul Burger speak on this subject, "Youth at Work". All work and no play make Jack a dull boy, so Jack Stetler (better known as Pete) will discuss, "Youth at Play". Ruth Russell, Dorothy Leitch, Dorothy Tomm, Iris Roy, Lila Keil, Wilbert Sallach, Marion Jones, Jack Schofield, and many others will graduate with honors. And we still hear those seniors groaning about theses. Underclassmen continue to groan about tests and all the night work in this nice weather. Oh, well! Juniors are busy with the prom.

Neville is our guest this Wednesday, and another baseball season closes. A score of athletes complete three and four years of playing for dear old Shaler. Three cheers for the Huskies! Now is the time for day dreaming, and we were doing some of this. How many times have you said, "Do you remember when . . . ?" Maybe you will have to scratch your heads a long time to identify these three boys. No, that's not right. Bad guess! Can't you pick out those football players on either end? No? Well, reading from left to reading, we are told (and even we were stumped) that they're Bob Galen, Ed Jones, and Pete Stetler. Satisfied? Don't you suppose that they ought to be good if they have been practicing all this time?

May 22

A few sad blows are dealt to seniors. They are using all their energy this week, in a last effort to demonstrate their ability and intelligence before going out into the cruel world. Commencement practice begins this week to the tune of, "With Pomp and Circumstance". And it's "Left, right, left, right", or "Get in step". It's funny that some don't seem to know their left from right. Caps and gowns arrive, and Dignity reigns. "I feel silly in this hat", or "Is this on straight?"—this we hear every day. Oh, for the life of a senior! Howard Edgar was kind enough to give us this snap of the prom last year, and since we thought you wouldn't mind if we were a bit ancient, let these four senior couples attract your attention just now. Thank you, Howard Edgar!

Don't do too much cramming at the last minute! Don't expect to pass after you rested all year! Do these worry you? Now the eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades are working over this test, and that one, and still . . . another one. It's really hard to stay in these days. While they're not studying, many are planning to attend the prom, which the juniors sponsor. And there's really work being done with those juniors! The marching still goes on each morning when seniors report. Aren't they lucky? They're getting ready for the service this Sunday afternoon, for then there's Baccalaureate. Football fans should enjoy Dr. Louis H. Evans. Again, Howard Edgar comes to the rescue with a snap of a large group at the prom last year. And do you remember the decorations?

June 5

As the old saying goes, "No more pencils . . . no more books . . . no more teachers' sassy looks", so we come to the end of another year in Shaler history. Seniors draw in the record crowd for their commencement, in fact, there isn't an inch of standing room. "Youth in the World of Today" occupies the platform. Musical numbers, instrumental and vocal, are to be on the program. Dick Heald, as the first speaker for the class, will give the president's address. Following him, will be Jean Tencate, Paul Burger, and Jack Stetler, all speaking of Youth in 1939. The farewell address is to be delivered by Marion Riethmuller. And now they will have their diplomas.

We, the undersigned, and under-pictured, hope that you have enjoyed our slant of this year's events and activities, of personalities, and of things in general about our school. We have written this for You . . . and You . . . and You. If we have forgotten something of importance, please forgive us. After all, a diary is a personal matter, and we couldn't help putting the personal touch to "The Shaleresque Diary". Won't you give us credit for being just "a little different"? And now, we, Lucille Kleber and Wilbert Sallach take a bow.
